PLENARY INDULGENCE—The faithful may obtain a plenary indulgence—a remission before God of the temporal punishment for a previously forgiven sin—by visiting a minor basilica. To obtain a plenary indulgence during a pilgrimage to a basilica, one must participate in any sacred rite or recite the Lord’s Prayer or the profession of faith while there, then go to Confession and Communion, and pray for the intention of the pope. ~ taken from The Register, Salina Diocese newspaper

The Believing Thomas

Today's gospel story about the apostle Thomas has branded him as the "Doubting Thomas." It is true that he doubted. But more important than his doubts is his journey to resolve them. And that, as Paul Harvey would say, is "The Rest of the Story."

Thomas was not with the other apostles when the Lord first appeared to them. Perhaps he was troubled and wandered away. But he did not give up. He returned and he made the boldest profession of faith of all the apostles, "My Lord and my God." Thomas represents those who are troubled and lapse in the practice of their faith, but return after resolving their doubts. Often they have a deeper conviction than those who have never strayed.

The Lord waited a week before he reappeared to the apostles with Thomas present. Perhaps Christ was allowing Thomas time to work through his struggle of faith. The circumstances of life affect faith development and the ability to make a serious commitment. Not all the workers in the vineyard began at the first hour, yet all received the same reward.

The other apostles boasted, "We have seen the Lord." They might have been implying that they were better apostles. The manner in which we profess our faith affects others. It takes prudence to challenge others without offending them. Good example must be given in a good manner.

Thomas is revered today as a saint, which says something positive about doubting. St. Philip Neri wrote, "Our faith owes more to the doubts of Thomas than to the belief of all the other Apostles." Doubt may not be a virtue but it is an essential part of an authentic faith.

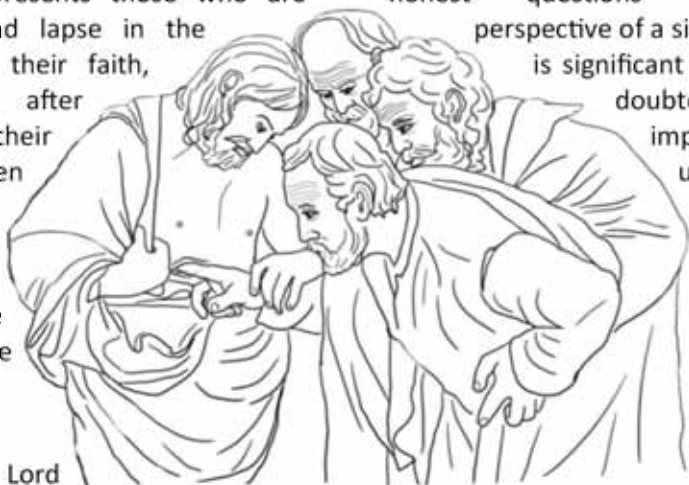

Our doubts must be faced and engaged if our faith is to grow. An unexamined faith is not an authentic faith. A thousand doubts do not make a single denial. The doubting Thomas is offered as a model for all who raise honest questions from the perspective of a sincere faith. It is significant that Thomas doubted; it is more important that ultimately he believed.

The words of Christ, "Blessed are those who have not seen and have believed" can be taken, not as a rebuke of Thomas, but a subtle blessing. Thomas had not seen the first appearance with the other apostles yet had come to believe. Christ is blessing not so much those who have never doubted, but more so those whose struggle with faith has led them to the deeper faith of Thomas, "My Lord and my God."
