PLENARY INDULGENCE—The faithful may obtain a plenary indulgence—a remission before God of the temporal punishment for a previously forgiven sin—by visiting a minor basilica. To obtain a plenary indulgence during a pilgrimage to a basilica, one must participate in any sacred rite or recite the Lord’s Prayer or the profession of faith while there, then go to Confession and Communion, and pray for the intention of the pope. ~ taken from The Register, Salina Diocese newspaper

Something Old, Something New

The song Give Me That Old Time Religion became a modern classic when it was featured in the movie Sergeant York (1941). It was more than the clever lyrics or the catchy tune that made it so successful. Its theme strikes a chord with many people who long for a simpler way of life. That is true of religion. For many people the religion of yesteryear seemed more authentic.

Christianity and most of the world religions have undergone major reforms and theological development in recent times. Some have been efforts to reclaim their original spirit, others to find new ways to live their ancient faith. The results have been mixed, so criticism is warranted.

The Second Vatican Council brought some changes to the practice of our Catholic faith. The guiding principles it offered were true to our roots, but some implementations were not as authentic. Our modern quest for "the new" is too easily overwrought. The distinguished theologian Cardinal Avery Dulles once quipped, "In my many years as a professional theologian I have learned that most new ideas in theology are wrong."

While there is much wisdom in these critiques of adapting the Christian faith to changing times, there is also a hidden danger. Nostalgia may be comforting, but it is not always correct. It has been said, tongue-in-cheek, that the major reason for the good old days is a poor memory. More importantly, the church cannot be a museum. It must be in the arena of life. Pope Francis uses the image of a field hospital to describe the mission of the church. Such facilities are often quite hectic, but they do tend to the most basic needs of life.

The challenge to live one's faith in a rapidly changing world was captured well by Pope John XXIII in his opening address of the Second Vatican Council: "The substance of our ancient and unchanging faith is one thing; the manner in which it is to be lived and proclaimed in each age is another."

Jesus of Nazareth was also among those accused of distorting traditional faith. While it is true that he brought a fundamental change to the religion of his ancestors, the continuity of faith in the God of Abraham was not severed but enriched. His words in today's gospel on maintaining a constant faith in a changing world are timeless: "Every scribe trained in the kingdom of heaven is like the master of a household who brings out of his treasure what is new and what is old." (Mt 13:52)

Please welcome Fr. Augustine Temu, the priest who will visit our parish next weekend to speak at all the Masses on behalf of Cross Catholic Outreach which was founded to create a meaningful link between parishes in America and the priests and nuns working in the Church overseas in the Caribbean, Africa, Asia, and Central and South America.

Fr. Temu will share some touching stories about the amazing work Catholic missions are accomplishing worldwide. Since Cross Catholic Outreach empowers existing Catholic missions, its programs are extremely cost-effective, and the majority of the resources it collects go into program services that help the poorest of the poor around the world.

ANOTHER LITTLE CHUCKLE

Like Father Like Son

The old man ate breakfast at the café and, after paying his bill, left a tip of three dimes on the table.

As he strode toward the door, his waitress murmured, "You know, you can tell a lot about a man by the tip he leaves."

The man turned around and said, "Oh, really. Tell me, what does my tip tell you?"

"Well, this dime tells me you are a thrifty man."

Barely able to conceal his pride, the man says, "Very true."

The waitress continued, "And the second dime tells me you are a bachelor."

Surprised at her perception, he said, "That's true, too."

She continued, "And the third dime tells me your father was also a bachelor."
