PLENARY INDULGENCE—The faithful may obtain a plenary indulgence—a remission before God of the temporal punishment for a previously forgiven sin—by visiting a minor basilica. To obtain a plenary indulgence during a pilgrimage to a basilica, one must participate in any sacred rite or recite the Lord's Prayer or the profession of faith while there, then go to Confession and Communion, and pray for the intention of the pope. ~ taken from The Register, Salina Diocese newspaper

Lenten Temptations

The gospel for the first Sunday of Lent is always about Satan tempting Christ in the desert. This year we read this brief account from the gospel of Mark: "He was in the desert forty days, tempted by Satan. He was among wild beasts and the angels ministered to him."

The gospels of Matthew and Luke, in contrast to Mark, present a scriptural debate between Christ and devil with three specific temptations: to turn stone to bread, to leap from temple, and to rule the world. Despite these difference the fundamental idea in all three gospel accounts is the same: the Son of God overcame testing by Satan before he began his public ministry.

This year's reading from Mark offers these specifics: in the desert; forty days; tempted by the devil; among wild beasts; and angels ministered to him. The wilderness was probably the Judean desert where John the Baptist had been active. A desert experience is the traditional image of a purifying spiritual struggle to overcome sin and grow in God's grace.

The forty days recall the Exodus of the Old Testament when Israel wandered in the wilderness for forty years on their way to the promised land. It also evokes the forty day testing of Moses (Exodus 34:28) and of Elijah (Kings 19:8).

Satan's temptation of Christ is unspecified, the fundamental struggle between good and evil. This is the biblical image of Satan as the leader of all opposition to God's kingdom.

The wild beasts that Mark refers to are not mentioned in Matthew or Luke. It is from this reference that the lion has been designated as the symbol for Mark's gospel. Christ among wild beasts is an allegory of the struggle of his followers in the midst of a corrupting society.

The angels ministering to Christ when he was subjected to temptation is a reminder of God's grace strengthening Christians in their struggle to live free of sin. This contrast of wild beasts and ministering angels is an image taken from Psalm 91. "He will command his angels to guard you in all your ways; the lion and the adder you will trample under foot."

Satan tempting people to sin is a concept alien to our secular culture. But Christians are reminded on this first Sunday of Lent that as Christ was tempted by the devil his followers should expect the same. Yet we are also reminded that amid the wild beasts and the temptations by the devil angels ministered to him. In our struggles with the devil, the angels are on our side.

..... and mirth

The road to success is dotted with many tempting parking spaces.

Did You Know ?

In 1885 President George Washington's birthday—February 22—was designated as a federal holiday in recognition of the first president of the United States. In 1971, the celebration was moved to the third Monday in February and became known as Presidents' Day in order to create more 3-day weekends for America's workers. It is now viewed as a way to honor all U.S. presidents both past and present.
